

Camp Fire Girls.

Membership honors for the current round-up will be similar to those conferred in the past except that they have a red "CFG" brand on them. One member of every Camp Fire and Blue Bird group in Mishawaka will be selected to make a round-up poster. An extension committee of the council plans to check schools to see if a poster has been placed on the bulletin board. A quota of 100 registrations has been set for the local council in the member drive.

Camp Fire girls will participate Friday and Saturday in a flower sale for the benefit of the blind in Mishawaka and South Bend. Girls wishing to take part should call on the second floor of the city hall at 3:30 p. m. Friday to receive flowers, banks and instructions. Mrs. John C. Kaiser, president of Camp Fire Guardians association, will again be in charge. Camp Fire girls selling flowers will receive citizenship honors. Eight prizes are offered, several being cash. Miss Louis Prah, of Dakonya group, won first prize last year.

Camp Fire groups are entitled to mention in the weekly column and group scribes are asked to submit all group news to headquarters. A new scribes' contest will open Oct. 1. Those having reports in every week for three months will receive a scribe's honor.
